July 13 – Terry Ostram, Plenary Group and US-36 between Denver and Boulder

Terry talked about his job as a member of the Plenary Group to help finance and plan the Route 36 redesign between Boulder and I25. He has much experience in large construction projects, including Disneyland and Glenwood Canyon I70 lanes. Due to lack of sufficient Federal funding for new highways/bridges since 2000, the funding model being used more now in the U.S. for such projects is the “P3” approach of “Public-Private Partnership”. Plenary Group has completed 19 P3 projects with currently 11 in progress. The Route 36 project is using P3 funding with a combination of tax-free municipal bonds, TIFIA federal funds for highway construction, and Plenary Group funds. All the decisions about the arrangement of tolls on Route 36 were made by the Colorado Department of Transportation (CDOT). Route 36 will have its own patrol officers who can issue tickets for toll-lane violations, speeding, etc. For more information about the Plenary Group and the Route 36 project, see – www.plenarygroup.com.

July 20 – Brent Hultman, “True Leadership”

Brent Hultman spoke to club members about what it means to have good leadership skills that are not the same as good management skills. He said that true leadership happens when “those who serve are followed by others”. Brett used as an example of his military experience when he was a non-commissioned officer just out of college who led a unit that included battle-hardened Vietnam veterans. To gain their trust and willingness to follow his commands, he served them by helping them understand how the military system could be used to their advantage.

Brent also talked about the changing model of leadership in today’s business world, where the days when an employee working for a large company such as AT&T could see a clear path ahead for advancement are now gone. In today’s business environment, the paneled offices of the higher-level executives have disappeared, and the employee cubicles have been replaced with home-offices. Companies are becoming much less structured and more dependent on consultants than regular employees. The challenge of many companies is trying to figure out how to motivate the “millennials” generation (those born between the early 1980s to the early 2000’s). Pete Sprinkle's Girls' Softball Team Success

Pete Sprinkle's Boulder Stars 18U team, after winning the regular league with a 16-0 record, also won the IPGSA 18U tournament July 12th. The Stars beat the Rage 20-0 in the semi final game and then dispatched the North Thornton Freeze 22-2 in the championship game. The Stars scored 7 runs in the top of the 1st inning to basically put the game away and coasted from there.

Pete commented: "The girls, as all championship teams do, played their best this weekend and totally dominated the competition. They were outstanding in all aspects of the game and as always were enthusiastic and positive in their approach to the game. It's a great way to end a 41-year coaching career, going undefeated for the season and having a resounding win in the championship game of the tournament and to have my granddaughter play a big role in the season.
